

Children's Cove at JPPII

Team members from Children's Cove will be joining us at the high school on Monday, April 28th during both lunches to raise awareness for Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Children's Cove is the Children's Advocacy Center for the Cape and Islands, dedicated to supporting children and families affected by crimes against children and promoting child sexual abuse prevention. Through advocacy, education, and direct services, they strive to create a safer environment for children in our community. During Child Abuse Prevention Month, they encourage parents, caregivers, and school community members to engage in important conversations with children about body safety, online safety, and how to ask for help if needed. Team members will also be sharing valuable resources to raise awareness and empower everyone to play a role in protecting children and fostering a safe community free from abuse.

If you have specific questions/concerns about this event, please reach out to our school adjustment counselor, Ms. McLeod at amcleod@jprihyannis.org, thank you!

On Monday, April 28th, Children's Cove will be joining JPPII during both lunches to raise awareness for Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Team members will be available to answer questions, provide information and share valuable resources to raise awareness and empower everyone to play a role in protecting children and fostering a safe community free from abuse.